I bring 25 years of insurance and finance experience—and I've delivered exactly what Munich Re Specialty needs: end-to-end project ownership in complex, regulated environments where scope creep, resource constraints, and stakeholder alignment are the real battles.

As an independent consultant, I've led transformation programmes across finance, operations, and regulatory reporting for tier-1 insurers. Most recently, I redesigned a closing process for a major insurer, reducing month-end cycles by 40% while tightening control frameworks—the kind of disciplined delivery your Global Change Portfolio requires. I've also managed resource allocation across multi-stream programmes where competing priorities forced tough trade-offs; I'm comfortable pushing back on timelines when the numbers don't work, not to obstruct but to deliver honestly.

What matters here: I know insurance risk and regulatory pressure. I understand why actuarial, finance, and operations teams see the same project differently. I've built project plans that account for that friction upfront. And I've consistently delivered to budget and timeline because I track relentlessly and escalate early—not because I'm optimistic, but because I plan defensively.

The honest gap: I'm coming from freelance consulting, not a direct employee role. But that's precisely why I'm a stronger Senior PM for you. I've worked across organisational boundaries without internal politics clouding judgment. I report what is, not what people want to hear.

I'm ready to move into a London-based role. Let's discuss how my delivery track record aligns with your portfolio priorities.
