Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm writing to express interest in the Middle Office role at Crédit Mutuel Asset Management. This position aligns directly with my background: 25 years in finance and insurance, with deep expertise in financial data management, regulatory reporting, and operational transformation—exactly what your product database and transaction tool implementation requires.

Over the past decade, I've led similar initiatives. Most relevant: I redesigned a reference data framework for a €40B asset manager, establishing governance protocols for instrument creation across equities, bonds, and structured products. The project reduced data errors by 35% and cut month-end reconciliation cycles from five days to two. I've also implemented control frameworks for third-party universes and managed migration risks during system transitions—the core of what you're doing with your new tool.

What I bring to your team isn't just technical knowledge of instrument taxonomy or position management. I bridge the gap between IT delivery and finance operations. Your Middle Office is moving fast on a 15-month CDD. I've done this before: I understand how to build maintainable reference data, design validation rules that don't break, and keep stakeholders aligned when complexity rises. I'm comfortable working within structured teams and reporting up clearly.

One honest note: I've worked as an independent consultant for five years. This role interests me because it's defined, outcome-focused, and time-bound—exactly how I work best. I'm not seeking open-ended flexibility; I want to deliver measurable results and move on.

I'm ready to discuss how I'd approach your product database governance and tiers universe in your context.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
