I bring 25 years of insurance and finance expertise directly to your balance sheet. I've spent my entire career at the intersection of technical complexity, regulatory constraint, and delivery pressure—the exact space where most transformations either succeed or stall.

My last two mandates show this fit. At a €50B+ insurer, I redesigned their financial close process, cutting month-end cycles from 12 days to 6 while embedding new IFRS 17 controls. The CFO's office doubled down and kept me for the regulatory reporting overhaul that followed. Before that, I led the PMO for a major operating model shift at a mid-market player—€200M revenue—where unclear governance was burning weeks. We built a steering discipline from scratch. Both times, the value wasn't in the PowerPoint. It was in seeing where finance, actuarial, IT, and operations actually collide, then clearing the path.

I work as an independent consultant and interim executive, which means I'm built for pace and precision. I don't need onboarding time. I know insurance. I know how control frameworks actually work. I know how to talk to CFOs, risk committees, and technical teams without needing translation.

One honest thing: I'm not looking to slide into a full-time role with a long notice period attached. I deliver best in mandates where the scope is real and the timeline is clear. If that matches what you're building, I'm worth a conversation.

Let's talk. You have my calendar link.
