I bring 25 years in insurance and finance transformation—exactly the depth Financial Services needs from a Delivery Lead. My work lives at the intersection of regulatory complexity, technical execution, and stakeholder alignment. That's where I add the most value.

I've led multi-million-euro programs across banking and insurance: regulatory reporting platforms, operating model redesigns, and large-scale IT transformations where clarity and discipline made the difference between delivery and delay. At Expert Zone Advisory, I've managed end-to-end delivery for CFO offices and IT organizations handling real P&L responsibility. I work fluent in both boardroom language and technical detail—I translate between Finance, Actuariat, and IT without losing precision on either side.

Your role asks for someone who can mobilize high-performing teams on complex international projects while maintaining process rigor and budget discipline. That's my profile. I've built PMO governance structures that scaled across countries, coached teams through agile transformations in regulated environments, and shaped delivery methodologies that stuck. The insurance technology practice aligns with where I see the market moving: I've already done the pre-sales work, the inside-out market thinking, and the strategy rollout conversations you need.

One honest point: I'm currently independent. I've chosen that structure for the last three years because it gave me flexibility and control. I'm now looking for the scale, the global network, and the institutional backing that only a firm like Accenture offers. This role is the move I've been waiting for.

I'd welcome a conversation about how my track record in Financial Services delivery translates to what you're building in Brussels.
