Re : Freelance Project Manager Insurance Sector

Aafinlo is staffing a migration in Belgian life insurance where operational readiness cannot slip: cutover, hypercare, and business as usual all depend on operations, IT, finance, legal, compliance, risk, and customer service moving on the same timeline. That coordination problem, across functions with different priorities and no shared clock, is the one worth solving here.

I have run it before. At Clearwater, as senior programme director, I led several parallel implementations of an R to R SaaS solution, with monthly sponsor committees at executive level and consolidated tracking of deliverables, milestones, and resources on a dedicated tool (Monday.com), for clients including the Luxembourg-based Luxempart. At CNP, I automated projected financial production across asset classes (P&L, cash flows) and Solvency II investment reporting on 350 billion euros in assets, taking a SimCorp Dimension implementation from design to go-live in 18 months, a schedule that left no room for governance gaps between finance and IT. At Coface, IFRS 9 rolled out in stages over four years: successive POCs, ECL methodology, accounting schemas, UAT, and coordination with the depositary CACEIS, the same kind of multi-party sequencing that cutover and hypercare demand.

Hybrid work is how I have operated for years, including on the Clearwater programmes, and I am comfortable running governance and stakeholder communication remotely without losing pace on milestones.

I operate as an independent consultant today. Nevertheless, I am perfectly open to a permanent role, directly or after an initial engagement period.

I would be happy to discuss how this readiness track maps onto the migration timeline at Aafinlo.

Best regards,
