Dear Hiring Manager,

I bring 25 years of deep insurance and finance expertise directly relevant to this Senior Consultant role —specifically in the areas where your CFO offices need it most: regulatory reporting, governance architecture, and the operational discipline to translate compliance requirements into working systems.

My last three years were spent as interim Finance Manager and PMO lead at a mid-sized insurer, where I redesigned their closing process across IFRS 17 and Solvency II reporting lines, cut month-end cycle time by 35%, and built the data governance model that their Risk and Compliance teams now depend on. Before that, I worked with Deloitte's Berlin office on a similar mandate—process optimization for a German captive, regulatory alignment, and the kind of stakeholder translation (CFO to CTO to Chief Risk Officer) that this position explicitly calls for.

I understand the Insurance Governance, Compliance & Data space because I've lived the technical detail (data models, financial architecture, digital reporting) and the political complexity of getting Finance, IT, and Regulation to move together. That combination is rarer than it sounds.

One honest note: I'm currently independent (Expert Zone Advisory SAS). I'm open to this as a full-time role if the fit is right, but want to be transparent about that context upfront.

I'm based in the Paris region, Berlin is a practical move, and I'd welcome a conversation about how my track record maps to your current client needs.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
