I bring 25 years in insurance and finance, with deep expertise in group reporting, consolidation processes, and IFRS delivery across complex, multi-entity structures. This role aligns precisely with where I deliver the most value: at the intersection of technical accounting rigour, regulatory pressure, and execution discipline.

In my most recent mandate, I redesigned the quarterly close process for a €2.4bn insurance group, reducing close cycles from 18 to 11 days while tightening IFRS controls across 12 legal entities in 5 jurisdictions. I led the consolidation methodology review, rebuilt reconciliation protocols in Excel and WDesk, and managed the external audit pack preparation. The role taught me that group reporting excellence isn't just technical—it's about clarity, timing, and building trust with audit committees and boards.

Before that, I spent three years as interim Finance Manager for a reinsurance underwriter, owning quarterly and year-end IFRS reporting, regulatory filing, and the relationship with external auditors. I'm equally comfortable with the mechanics (journal entries, intercompany eliminations, disclosure packs) and the bigger picture: what the numbers mean, where the risks sit, and how to communicate clearly under pressure.

I'm a qualified accountant (French equiv. of ACA) with native English capability. My background is 100% insurance and finance—no pivoting or learning curves on sector context.

The one honest note: I've worked as an independent consultant for the past five years. This role is a 12-month FTC, which is exactly the format I'm built for. I'm relocating to the London area and available to start within two weeks.

I'd welcome a conversation about the consolidation complexity you're managing and how I can take this off your team's plate cleanly.
