Dear Hiring Manager,

I bring 25 years in insurance and finance, the last 15 as a senior program and delivery leader in complex transformation environments. This role aligns precisely with where I add the most value: large-scale IT initiatives where technical delivery, stakeholder alignment, and executive communication converge.

My background matches your core requirements. I've managed P&C programs across multiple segments—including industrial lines and commercial—with direct experience in multi-system integrations (8+ concurrent legacy systems), mainframe environments, and output management platforms. I've held governance responsibilities for 3+ years, presenting regularly to boards and steering committees on complex transformations. My German is professional; English is fluent across all contexts.

Two concrete examples: I led a three-year claims platform transformation for a major insurer, managing delivery of four major releases annually across nine interconnected systems while maintaining regulatory and operational continuity. I also advised a P&C group through a €40M IT portfolio overhaul, developing roadmaps, prioritizing 15+ conflicting initiatives, and coaching their internal PMO to independence.

One honest note: I've worked as an independent consultant and interim manager for the past five years. I'm built for high-autonomy, results-driven environments and perform best where accountability is clear and scope is well-defined. This role feels like a strong match.

I'm available immediately and committed to a 3-4 year engagement with Düsseldorf as needed.

Let's talk.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
