Re : Senior PMO Analyst

Coordinating governance, financial oversight, and reporting across a large-scale technology programme, with stakeholders spread across time zones, needs someone who can turn scattered inputs into a single reliable picture for senior leadership. That's the core of this role, and it's the work I've built my career around.

At CNP, I rebuilt the investment accounting production process under Solvency II constraints, covering 350 billion euros in assets, delivered in 18 months and on schedule. That meant running governance across finance, actuarial, and IT teams, tracking dependencies, and producing the kind of management information packs senior stakeholders could act on without asking follow-up questions. I've also led data migration and system cutover work, including UAT campaigns and cahiers des charges, where the reporting discipline and change control expected in this role were the daily job, not an occasional task. Reconciling suspense accounts and closing gaps across French GAAP, IFRS, and US GAAP environments trained me to spot the small inconsistency in a dashboard before it becomes a governance issue.

Hybrid work is standard practice for me. At Clearwater, I ran cross-border projects with distributed teams using SharePoint, OneDrive, and the full Microsoft ecosystem as the default working environment, not an adjustment.

Happy to walk through specifics on a call.
