Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm applying for the Experienced Client Accountant role in your Capital Markets team because my background fits the core need: I've spent 25 years in finance and insurance, with deep expertise in financial reporting, regulatory compliance, and delivering accurate statements under tight deadlines across complex, multi-jurisdictional entities.

What matters here is that I've done this work at scale. I've managed financial reporting and compliance for portfolios spanning multiple entities and jurisdictions, coordinated audits with external firms, and built the controls and processes that keep reporting reliable when stakes are high. I'm comfortable with Dutch GAAP, IFRS, and the waterfall models and derivative accounting you mention. I've also handled the operational side—payment execution, banking platform coordination, data analysis—that keeps the finance function running clean.

I came through insurance and asset finance, where regulatory precision and reporting deadlines aren't negotiable. That discipline transfers directly to capital markets accounting.

One honest point: I've been independent for several years, running my own consulting practice. I'm genuinely interested in a structured contract role because it lets me focus on deep delivery rather than business development. A 12-month FTC in Amsterdam is exactly the kind of engagement where I do my best work.

I'm based in the Paris region and happy to commit to the onsite schedule. I speak French, English, and enough Dutch to navigate the compliance and administrative side.

Let's talk about how I can stabilize and strengthen your financial operations from day one.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
