Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm writing to express interest in the Senior Consultant role in Financial Operations at PwC's Insurance practice.

For 25 years, I've worked exclusively in insurance and finance—building operating models, redesigning financial processes, and delivering complex regulatory reporting under pressure. I've spent the last decade as an interim finance manager and PMO lead for insurers navigating transformation: closing redesigns, control framework overhauls, Solvency II implementations. I deliver what matters: clarity on scope, realistic timelines, and clean execution across Finance, Actuariat, IT, and Operations.

Two examples: I led a €2M process automation program for a mid-cap insurer that cut month-end closing by 8 days and eliminated 60% of manual controls. For another client, I rebuilt their regulatory reporting function from scratch—designing controls, training teams, and delivering ORSA documentation on deadline. Both required the exact mix PwC values: technical depth, stakeholder alignment, and uncompromising delivery discipline.

I should be direct about one thing: I've built my recent career as an independent consultant and business owner. I thrive in that structure. I'm exploring this role because PwC's CMAAS team—the scale, the pluridisciplinary approach, the visibility into transactions and material client moments—aligns with where I add the most value. I'm genuinely interested in what sustained team membership and investment in capability development could unlock.

I'd welcome a conversation about how my insurance operations and finance transformation background fits your team's priorities.

Best regards,

Xavier Robitaille
