I bring 25 years of insurance and finance expertise to roles where technical depth, regulatory constraints, and delivery pressure intersect. I've spent my entire career in this space—not adjacent to it—which means I understand both the complexity and what actually moves the needle.

My value is clearest on high-stakes missions: I've led operating model transformations for insurers, redesigned close processes under Solvency II reporting requirements, and managed multi-workstream programmes where finance, actuarial, and IT had to move together. On a recent assignment, I restructured a CFO office's governance model and cut regulatory reporting cycle time by 35% through process redesign and control optimization. On another, I took a stalled PMO mandate and delivered a 3-year transformation roadmap that secured €2.8M in funding—because the board trusted the clarity and discipline behind it.

I work best as an interim or mission-based consultant; that's where my independence and speed create the most value. If you're looking for a permanent hire, I'm probably not the fit. But if you need someone who can land fast, speak credibly to both the business and technical sides, and deliver under constraint, I'm worth a conversation.
